7. The Northern Traveller, and Northern Tour; with the Routes to The Springs, Niagara, and Quebec, and the Coal Mines of Pennsylvania; also, the Tour of New-England. Embellished with thirty-two Copperplate Engravings. Fourth Edition, Revised and Extended. New York: Printed by J. & J. Harper, 1830. 444p., engraved plates and maps as called for, hardbound in quarter calf marbled boards, 6x3.6 inches. A very shaken copy, albeit complete, with the following faults: both covers presumed detached, now held (to all appearances) only by old thick tape and a modern plastic sleeve. Front blanks absent. Engraved title page held by old paper tape. Scattered foxing and occasional gutter-area mildew (most but not all plates and maps are unaffected). Entire textblock is badly rippled and crimped; it closes flat but opens very stiffly. Spine titling and rulings damaged. Poor copy, sufficient for reference. (#182290) $30.00

8. One step forward, twelve steps back: Tribune and the miners' strike. London: Ernest Bevin Society, 1985. 20p., wraps, occasional faint pencil marginalia. (#190884) $10.00

Arthurdale, West Virginia was the first New Deal planned resettlement community. Eleanor Roosevelt took a leading role in the establishment of Arthurdale and it was one of her major priorities. The New Deal administration built houses, schools and public buildings in the community and helped organize educational activities for the resettled coal miners in this back-to-the-land and self-sufficiency effort. The federal government liquidated its holdings in Arthurdale in 1947 and private ownership replaced it. It now exists as a historic site.
